Identifying opportunities for cost savings and higher quality care

AAA Club Alliance Inc.'s mission is to provide the best possible service to millions of members who rely on them for automotive, travel, insurance and financial services. ACA also holds itself to the same standard when it comes to caring for their employees. To make sure they were providing the best possible healthcare benefits for their employees, ACA partnered with a benefits consultant to evaluate their health plan and identify opportunities for improvement.

The benefits consultant dug into ACA's medical and pharmacy claims data to determine which health conditions were the primary cost drivers for the ACA population — and diabetes quickly emerged as the top condition. With a number of significant and closely associated comorbid conditions, diabetes had a significant impact on ACA employees' healthcare costs, as well overall plan spend.

With this data in hand, the benefits consultant analyzed the healthcare marketplace to identify a diabetes management solution that could help ACA align with its company mission to provide exceptional 24/7 support. The right solution would help ACA improve employee population health, decrease costs and improve employee engagement with their healthcare benefits.

Improving lives by expanding access to personalized diabetes management

As a not-for-profit organization, ACA only invests in benefit programs that can demonstrate proven ROI. As ACA and the benefits consultant assessed the options for diabetes management, Teladoc Health's Diabetes Management solution emerged as the clear winner. ACA partnered with Teladoc Health in 2019.

Offering on-demand educational resources and personalized coaching, Teladoc Health's Diabetes Management program leverages data — including individuals' health metrics, behavioral patterns, preferences and more — to trigger timely, actionable feedback that inspires better health decisions. Health coaches help reinforce good habits and deliver targeted support that fits employees' individual needs and lifestyles. This flexible solution was a strong fit for ACA's specific employee population needs. As a support-focused organization, ACA employees fill a broad range of roles. Many positions require employees to operate in fast-paced, high-stress environments and work long shifts on irregular schedules (call center employees, mechanics, tow truck drivers, etc.).
